Different models of crime prevention problem solving are briefly outlined. They include theory informed problem solving, context sensitive problem solving. Research is beginning to identify a number of ways in which police can. Practical lessons for involving the community in crime and disorder problem-solving.